

Orientation session - the Implementation of the 4th Year under the UGCF 2022 Curriculum

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Kamala Nehru College organized an orientation session on March 5, 2025, for third-year students, focusing on the "Implementation of 4th Year" under the UGCF 2022 curriculum. The session aimed to address queries and guide the students towards UGCF, research, and internships and provide essential information regarding the options to students in their fourth year.

The session was conducted in three phases, with different departments and the queries of students were attended to. During the orientation, students were informed about the pathways in the fourth year, including the option to pursue a dissertation or academic project, a critical component of the curriculum. Additionally, students were guided on dissertation writing and academic projects, highlighting the need to identify research problems, conduct literature reviews, and formulate research designs. This preparation is essential for their fourth-year success, where they will apply their knowledge and skills in real-world contexts.

Overall, the orientation session was a valuable opportunity for students to gain clarity on their academic journey and the expectations for the upcoming year.
